Art and Nature.

It's a Janus-faced God.
The one was Nature, the other Art—
They were never quite like
she couldn't tell the two apart:
At first, in their qualities,
And give me to the various place,
We professed to be a photograph,
A picture, a drawing, a scene.
Art matched the pretty paper price
And passed it to his heart, and then
He put it to his mouth lips
And said "Hush! Hush! and here again,
Nature buried the painter's gift
And with a bang, a dash, a dash,
Art grappled with Nature with such ardor,
As though that great Ethan Allen said—
"Hoorsay, O Art!" the audacious—
"Let critics hymn your praise continue;
But men are men and girls are girls;
And I'll take Nature every time!"

Restoring Solomon's Temple.
Recent Pasha, the Turkish Governor of Jerusalem, has recently received imperative orders from Sultan Abdul Hamid to resume the work of restoration of Solomon's Temple, commenced under the reign of Abdul Aziz, but discontinued some five years ago. The Pasha has also been instructed to clear the great square fronting the Temple of all the rubbish and rank vegetation with which it is at present encumbered. In this square stands the famous Mosque of Omar, which derives a revenue of some $15,000 a year from pilgrim contributions and other sources. Hitherto the greater portion of this sum found its way annually to Stanford. The Sultan, however, has decreed that henceforth it shall be applied to defraying the expenses of the works above alluded to, the present resumption of which, as well as their original inception, is due in reality to suggestions made at different times to the Ottoman authorities by members of the Austrian imperial family. The restoration of the Temple ruins was begun at the instance of Francis Joseph during his visit to the Holy Land, shortly after the accession of Abdul Aziz to the throne, and it was the recent pilgrimage of the Archduke Rudolph to India that imparted a fresh impulse to the interrupted enterprise. Not only has the Commander of the Faithful signified it to be his sovereign will that the works should be carried out without further delay, but two officers of the Sublime Porte, Serid and Kaili Mousavi, have already left Constantinople for Jerusalem with instructions to take measures, on their arrival, for insuring the literal fulfillment of his Majesty's decree.

At the suggestion of the Directors of the Louisville Board of Trade resolutions were passed, urging upon all business men the introduction of the penny system. This system is having a small hold there just now, and for the last time, perhaps, in the history of the city, the coppers are seen in every direction. The movement was inaugurated by the Bosses Post about four weeks ago, that paper then reducing its price from five to two cents. Several of the most prominent business houses have already adopted the system, and it promises to become general.

A wedding between two school boys had been held, the boy down to have my best regards to a physician. Second boy—"What did he say?" First boy—"Oh, he said I had a great brain, but my body wasn't equal to it, and he told my father he'd better take me out and school him up, and just let me play to rest and develop my physique, and then my son's going to do it." Second boy is now restoring his father's health to a physician.

If you do not want to be robbed of your good name, do not have it painted on your best umbrella.

It is now ready.

Will pass away.

Not until rates are reduced.

And rain may pour.

The sun may shine tomorrow.

"Will you hold my baby while I look outside my baggage," asked a woman of a railway employee in a Chicago depot, the other day. "No," said the man, "but I will hold your baggage while you look out for your baby." He held a baby for a woman once, and she never came back for it, and that was what made him so careful.—(See Saturday Night.)

There are more ways than one to keep a husband at home evenings. The wife might put up a cask of beer in one corner of the dining room, cover the floor with sand, and hire two or three dirty fellows to fill the place full of smoke from vile cigars. A woman, with any sort of tact, can make home as happy and cheerful as any beer saloon.

Genevieve Ward is shocked beyond all expression, because men and women are compelled to sleep in the same sleeping cars. It is disgraceful. We have all sorts worried over the same thing, and been afraid to go to sleep, lest some woman should climb out of us and lie in our sleep. No man is safe in a mixed sleeping car.

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg will be married to Mr. Whitney in New York next Spring. She has sold her home on the Hudson, and will spend most of her time abroad with her husband. Miss Kellogg has earned during her life upon the stage about half a million dollars. Mr. Whitney is a man of large fortune.

Sir Walter Scott once lent a book to a friend, and as he gave it to him, begged that he would not fail to return it, adding, "good heavens! Although most of my friends are old and dead, they are still good bookkeepers."

"What kind of a mark is that?" said Magrady to his friend Tallowpore, pointing to a scar on his face. "It's a gash mark," replied the other; "got it for asking a man if it was hot enough for him." —(See.)

An unquestionably very best. Unquestionably the very best. Unquestionably, Mrs. April 26, 1881—We have recently been using your Brown's Iron Bitter, in my family, consisting of myself, wife and three children, and the effect has been always marked as in the case of Mr. Phelps. It is unquestionably a wonderful medicine. A. J. BOWES.

A newspaper editor was mistaken by a prominent man for a Brooklyn preacher, the other day. This should teach editors not to be flirting with every woman they meet.

It has been proved by experiments that young turkeys are fed on soft food mixed with milk, instead of water, much superior and more tender meat will be produced.
